WHEREAS, pursuant to the Court's scheduling order, discovery cut-off is presently scheduled for January 15, 2007, with initial expert disclosure scheduled for January 29, 2007, and rebuttal expert disclosure scheduled for February 12, 2007.

WHEREAS, the parties stipulate to a short continuance of discovery cut-off to February 27, 2007, to complete pending depositions only (not for written discovery), and continuance of expert disclosures and reports to March 22, 2007, and rebuttal expert exchange to April 12, 2007.

WHEREAS, the parties have encountered difficulty getting some witnesses to appear at depositions and there are pending depositions that have not taken place due to this problem coupled with scheduling problems which the parties attempted to resolve but are unable to accomplish prior to the present cutoff date. The pending depositions yet to be completed are those depositions that were noticed prior to the present cutoff.

WHEREAS, the completion of the pending depositions is necessary prior to completing expert disclosure as the experts will likely rely on the depositions yet to be completed.

WHEREAS, the present dispositive motion cutoff will not be affected, and counsel for defendants agree to file dispostive motions on March 15, 2007, and no earlier than this date.
